RANCHO CANADA—will it become a 175-room lodge or remain just a 200-acre golf course. Monterey County supervisors have adopted a resolution of intention to grant a use permit for the lodge, provided three major conditions are met by the developer. Supervisors will consider the conditions when they conduct a public hearing on the Rancho Canada Lodge proposal at their July 24 meeting at 2:30 p.m.

Requirements may kill Rancho Canada Lodge plans

By STEVE HELLMAN

THREE MAJOR CONDITIONS proposed by Monterey County supervisors in their preliminary approval last week of a use permit for the construction of Rancho Canada Lodge could sound the death knell for the embattled plan.

The proposed conditions, suggested by Supervisor Michal Moore of Monterey, swung the 4-1 vote for informal approval of the planned lodge in Carmel Valley. Prior to Moore's suggested compromise, supervisors appeared to favor denying the project during most of the five-hour public hearing. But Moore pulled developer Nick Lombardo's scaled-down plans for the 175-room lodge out of the fire by proposing conditions on traffic, sewage treatment and open space be attached to the use permit.

The county planning staff was directed to prepare the conditions and have them ready for the supervisors' July 24 meeting. The three major requirements are expected to be included with 60 other detailed conditions proposed.

Only Chairman Sam Farr of Carmel opposed the conditional use permit, maintaining his long stand with staunch opponents of the project that the lodge plan came at the "wrong time" and is in the "wrong location." Farr indicated that the project should be delayed until the Carmel Valley Master Plan, which was scheduled to be presented to supervisors at their meeting last Tuesday, is adopted. He also cited the severe traffic problems and the moratorium on sewage hook-up in Carmel Valley.

MOORE'S RECOMMENDATION for an "in lieu mechanism" to channel funds from the developer to assist with the improvements for the Hatton Canyon roadway stemmed directly from his fellow supervisors' concern about existing traffic congestion at the valley's mouth.

L.M. Orrett of the county Public Works Department reported that the clogged intersections at the entrance to Carmel Valley currently approach peak hour conditions and Rancho Canada Lodge would compound this traffic problem by "gobbling up" 20 percent of the remaining capacity.

On the issue of open space, Lombardo promised the 70 acres purchased for the lodge would be placed in permanent open space, but the supervisors wanted the remaining 200 acres of golf course added "in perpetuity."

While Lombardo termed the board's approval "a day of victory," the proposed condition denying his construction of a separate sewage treatment facility cast the project's fate into question.

The Carmel Sanitary District (CSD) previously denied service for Rancho Canada. At Outlook press time, Lombardo was scheduled to meet with the CSD, according to its general manager, Bud Bigelow.

"WELCOME TO THE GAME of Parcheesi politics," said one supervisor in reference to last week's trade-offs.

The supervisor, who asked not to be named, said the fate of Rancho Canada before the CSD "is not my

SUMMER CAMP FOR SCOUTS

The Carmel Valley Boy Scout Troop No. 127, voted Best Western National Troop at the 1973 Jamboree, will leave for its annual summer camp on Monday, July 9 and return Sunday, July 15. The troop will stay at the Huntington Lake Camp near China Peak.

GUEST SPEAKER AT KIWANIS MEETING

The Kiwanis Club of Carmel Valley will host a guest lecturer at its Tuesday, July 10 regular luncheon meeting at the Hidden Valley Music Seminars Center. The speaker will discuss the United States Secret Service Program.

WATERAMA AND DIVE-A-THON THIS WEEKEND

Members of the Carmel Barracudas Swimming and Diving Team will begin their annual fund-raising Waterama and Dive-a-Thon this weekend.

Cash pledges for the events may still be made by phoning Charles McKay, chairman of this event, at 659-4502.

In the Waterama, each swimmer will have two hours to swim a maximum of 200 lengths of the pool, having received pledges for each length of the pool they swim.

The diving team will attempt to dive for 24 consecutive hours and will collect pledges for each hour completed.

The teams are raising money to cover the costs of operation and for the use of the two area pools.

Diving events will be at the Carmel Valley Community Pool only, while swimming events will be at both the Carmel Valley pool and the Carmel High School pool. The diving will be from 6 a.m. Saturday to 6 a.m. Sunday. Swimming starts at 6 a.m. Sunday and goes to 6 p.m.

The Barracudas wil host the Hollister swim team in a league meet on Saturday at 9 a.m. at the CHS pool.

BAPTISTS TO HOST GUEST SPEAKER

The First Baptist Church of Carmel Valley congregation will hear a guest speaker at the 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. Sunday worship services. Dick Hart, an atomic power plant engineer from San Francisco, will be the guest speaker.

The Rev. Roy McBeth and his wife, Marjorie, will be vacationing in the United Kingdom during July.

ROTARY MEETING AT HOLIDAY INN

The Carmel Valley Rotary Club will have its regular meeting at 12:15 Monday, July 9 at the Carmel Holiday Inn.

COMMUNITY SERVICE ON SUNDAY

The Rev. James F. Bracher will give the message at the 10:30 a.m. Sunday service at the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula. His sermon, taken from Matthew 28:16-20, is titled The Neighborhood of Our World.

'Energy lunacy'

Dear Editor:

Even if the truth were being told about the current fuel-transportation disaster, no one would be able to believe it. Wringing the truth out of this mess will require a presidential commission. The public will not settle for less after being blamed by "Big Oil" and bungling bureaucrats.

The commission must investigate the following areas:

- Why did Energy Secretary James Schlesinger create a caste system wherein the fun, private, and other wasteful elements of general aviation are assigned high fuel priority?
- Did this favoritism by the energy czar disrupt the nation's tight fuel supplies, precipitating the energy disaster? What role did the glad-hand lobbyists from general aviation play in this disaster? Airports are still gloating like gluttons about their energy victory while the fuel disaster rages across the nation.
- What role did Transportation Secretary Brock Adams play in this disaster by scuttling other modes of transportation?
- And why did the energy czar exempt airports from priority fuel conservation programs?

Such energy lunacy allowed our airport board to approve the fly-in of over 400 planes and then boast about the income to be derived from consuming thousands of gallons of precious priority fuel.

GARDEN TALK:

Planning a small bedroom garden

By JERRY FOOTE

SOON AFTER WE MOVED into our Valley house, I looked out of the bedroom window at the view, which consisted of two scraggly plum trees, several trash cans, an old lawnmower and some overgrown shrubs. The northwest exposure meant that little sun penetrated the area; the driveway, which came within a few feet of the window, ensured that there would be little privacy for the unwary occupant.

Almost every house has an area like this one, a kind of leftover space which cries for special treatment. This challenge was the beginning of the project of making a private garden.

The talented young landscape gardener who gave us the master plan for the garden drew a plan for enclosing this space with a wall, fence and trellis to make a kind of outdoor room. Its longest two sides measured 22 feet and the other sides were a series of staggered shorter lengths of wall and fence which followed roughly the curve of the driveway.

In order to avoid cutting off the circulation of air here (always an important consideration for the health of plants), the fence was made of vertical redwood boards four inches wide, spaced at intervals of four inches on alternate sides of 2x6 crosspieces. This type of fence gives almost complete privacy without cutting off the breeze. In order to divide this space from the rest of the garden, a 7-foot trellis was built.

THE NEXT STEP WAS THE selection of the plants for the garden. For a Virginian subject to periodic bouts of homesickness, the choice was easy—a small duplicate of the much-loved garden which had been left behind. Since the decision had been made previously that the overall garden plan would use mostly native and Mediterranean plants, here was a space where the rule could be broken without being conspicuous or distracting to the eye.

Every gardener has a favorite group of plants to which he responds most deeply. Like people whom he enjoys, these plants create an atmosphere of love, beauty and interest which is both stimulating and relaxing.

Try to write down a list for yourself and compare it with that of a friend. No two lists will be the same! My list included a dogwood tree, lilac, boxwood, camellias, bleeding heart, iris, jonquils, violets, forget-me-nots, columbine, roses and honeysuckle.

As soon as the planting began, the question of scale became very important. After continual trial and error, I realized that the limited space required a form of miniaturization. A King Alfred jonquil simply loomed up, the odd equivalent of a five-foot high flower. This fall all of the large bulbs will be replaced with miniature species such as Narcissus triandus albus, canaliculatum and bulbocodium citrinus.

A brick terrace was laid with a diameter of six feet, just large enough to hold a small chair. The pool is three feet in diameter, placed low to the ground to reflect the branches and sky overhead as well as to attract birds. The only garden ornament is a small St. Francis in a corner. The dogwood tree, Cornus Florida, was scarcely three feet high when first planted, and now is only seven feet high, with lacy branches that give a delicate effect.

IN PLACE OF THE English boxwod which will not grow here, Korean box (Buxus Harlandii), a foot high and now about three times that size gives the feeling of the tall hedges of Virginia. Camellias japonica Snow White and Pink Pagoda were planted under a plum tree with groundcover of English ivy and Vinca minor Miss Jekyll's White. The camellias will be pruned carefully from now on to ensure that they do not become too dense for the space given them.

An espaliered Golden Delicious apple tree, Lonicera japonica "Halliana" and several climbing roses were used on the trellis and walls of the garden. This seemed to be a good place for the old fashioned Noisette roses which are not hardy as a rule in below freezing temperatures, and they did well for a few seasons, but drought and gophers took their toll. Mme. Alfred Carriere, Marechal Niel and Devoniensis are among my failures, and I mourn them greatly as I plan their replacements. The rest of the plants listed were tucked in at random, and to them were added some Japanese anemones for fall bloom.

Now, as I stand at the same window of the bedroom, the view is that of a private and favorite world, reassuring in its evocation of childhood and memories of another much-loved place.

I urge those of you who have never attempted it to try making a small, enclosed garden. A fern garden outside a bathroom, an herb garden beyond the kitchen window, a wall fountain outside the dining room—there are many possibilities. Above all, let it be a reflection of yourself and I promise you much pleasure and happiness.

Next week: An experiment in electro-culture.

'Bucket' swimming hole a little cleaner, safer—thanks to students

"THE BUCKET," CARMEL Valley's popular swimming hole, is a little cleaner and freer of dangerous debris—thanks to a group of concerned young people.

The group, members of a Monterey Peninsula College class, spent more than two hours Saturday, June 2 cleaning "The Bucket" area, which is located about a mile east of Carmel Valley Village. They painstakingly hauled out of the area over 400 pounds of broken glass, assorted bottles and refuse.

"There were literally piles of broken glass there," said John Harnish of Carmel, originator of the clean-up project.

It was while Harnish was attending Len Epstein's humanities class, The American Wilderness and the City, that he realized cleaning up "The Bucket" would be an appropriate project for the class.

The clean-up project "helped us to study the environment in terms of values," said Epstein. "That was one of the goals of the class."

Two other MPC students, John and Greg Ereman, combined efforts to launch the project. Joining them in the clean-up venture were Epstein, Harnish, Richard Landon, Anita Fennessey, Doug Sheel, Tanna Lesnick, Wendy Angel and her brother, Mark.

THEY MET AT the swimming hole on Saturday morning and began the difficult task of cleaning up, as John Ereman described it, "the broken glass, wine and beer bottles, some champagne bottles, papers and cans and anything and everything from the water, the sand, in and around the bushes, even partially buried objects."

Clearing the swimming area of litter was only one of the objectives of the project.

"We were not only concerned about ecology, but also the safety of the area," John said. "After we finished cleaning up, a kid cut his foot on a piece of glass in the river. He severed nerves and a ligament. I went to see him in the hospital the other day."

Another purpose of the project was to show support for California's Bottle Bill, now being debated in the State Legislature. The bill would make all glass beverage bottles returnable.

"It works in Oregon," John said.

TO ILLUSTRATE the need for this type of legislation, John related how when they were about ready to leave the swimming hole in the afternoon after completing their cleaning-up project, "cars and trucks began to pull up and a rider tossed out some bottles." Fortunately, John was able to persuade the rider to retrieve the bottles, but the incident convinced him the area's litter problems haven't been resolved. As the summer progresses and this Carmel Valley spot becomes more and more popular, the litter situation there is bound to get worse, John believes.

He and Epstein agreed that the only viable solution was to put up "no littering" signs and trash bins. The signs would be posted around the river itself, while the trash cans, unfortunately, would have to be at the edge of the parking area and not down near the river where they're needed. "The trail is just too steep" to haul the trash cans, explained John Ereman.

Whether this is the final solution, however, depends on the public heeding the signs and using the trash cans.

territory, but it could spell the death knell for this project."

• Open Space Requirement:

At the start of last week's marathon meeting, Lombardo argued, "We have every right to be here in this location with this size hotel. All hotel rooms, parking area and clubhouse will cover only 2.9 percent of the land. The remaining 97.1 percent will be in golf course use and certainly compatible with the community."

But Farr immediately questioned Lombardo on what would happen at the termination of Rancho Canada's 45-year lease on the golf course land.

"Forty-five years from now, I don't know who will be here, or whether there'll still be a golf course," Lombardo replied.

"How do we know in 45 years they won't tear down the golf courses and build on it?" Farr said.

Carmel's city attorney George Brehmer, appearing as a resident of Carmel Valley, said the Carmel Valley Master Plan (CVMP) designates the area "rural residential."

"AFTER TWO TO THREE years of study," he argued, "the master plan would be adopted within six months. It would not allow this hotel development."

David Young, senior planner for the county, confirmed to the Outlook that the CVMP "would not allow visitor resort-type accommodations along any of what's now Rancho Canada."

Opponents of the project were quick to echo support for the CVMP, but couldn't suggest alternative land uses for Rancho Canada. Stanley Worth of the Carmel Area Coalition called the development "absurd" in view of its location.

Supervisor Barbara Shipnuck of Salinas returned the criticism, charging the opponents with failure to yield to alternatives.

"Really, we cannot tell someone they cannot do anything with their property besides keep it in open space," she declared

SHIPNUCK, IN VOTING for the use permit, said it could include an option whereby the remaining 200 acres under lease might be dedicated to scenic open space "in perpetuity."

"I walked into this hearing," Moore said, "ready to deny anything Mr. Lombardo could throw at us."

"I agree with Barbara (Shipnuck). If you want open space around, tax yourselves; buy it and you'll have open space," Moore told the gallery of opponents filling one side of the chambers.

"I would be satisfied if a permanent open space easement is attached to the use permit," Moore said, referring to the golf courses.

Lombardo said he could not guarantee such a requirement because the land was under lease and would not be included in the 70 acres purchased by Rancho Canada de la Segunda Inc. and the partner in the development, Winthrop-Carmel Inc.

• Traffic Requirement:

"We're near the end of the line on Carmel Valley Road and Rio Road at Highway 1," said Orrett, referring to a study of traffic flow into the Valley.

Orrett explained traffic levels at peak hours were within 10 percent of capacity. He compared the traffic congestion at the entrance to the Valley to that on the San Francisco Bay Bridge.

Lombardo's traffic expert, Jim Robertson, claimed that the 175-room lodge would generate only a 2 percent increase in traffic.

Robertson, a traffic engineer for the city of Marin, said the 2 percent increase would not be noticeable because traffic counts are down all over California.

HE ADDED THAT THE extension of Rio Road through to Carmel Valley Road as part of the project would divert some of the congestion off Highway 1.

Orrett retorted that the 2 percent increase, compared to the remaining 10 percent capacity, would "gobble up" slack in the traffic levels.

Robertson's definition of Rancho Canada as a "destination hotel and golf course" was disputed by Brehmer, who said visitors would be "shooting out" to other attractions on the Monterey Peninsula.

"I drive Carmel Valley Road four times a day. It's the third most dangerous road in the county. Two deaths since January. You can count the skid marks. It's a doggone dangerous road," Brehmer insisted.

"THE TRAFFIC PROBLEM is the single biggest issue here today," said Elliot Anderson, a resident.

"We had a problem with DC-10s. We shut them down. We're approaching that with our highways; we'll have to shut them down too," he said.

Supervisor Dusan Petrovic of King City, who opposed the project until Moore's compromise swung his vote, cited traffic as "the most important thing, the thing that worries me the most."

"Traffic is already in the last permissible stage. If it's decreasing as Mr. Robertson states, then this may have an adverse, maybe fatal effect on the project."

"If the economy goes into a recession, the project would be economically dangerous," Petrovic argued initially.

FARR SAID THE PROJECT was clearly dependent on traffic in an area already congested with problems.

"We've got an 'E' level of service on our only access to Community Hospital up Highway 1. We're not adding any solution to this problem," Farr said.

Shipnuck agreed. She said her main concern was with the traffic issue.

Moore's compromise was that all future projects approved for Carmel Valley contribute pro rata to improvements on the Hatton Canyon Road.

He told the Outlook later that an "in lieu mechanism" would be drafted to recapture revenue for improvements on Hatton Canyon Road, but the formula wasn't worked out yet.

"THE LIKELIHOOD OF getting any money out of the state is slim at this point," Moore said.

"This is a state road," Lombardo said after the meeting. "How could they have only future developers pay for this?"

Traffic congestion was the hardest argument leveled against the project, but Lombardo said he could find acceptable an in-lieu mechanism, so long as it was fair.

• Sewage Treatment:

On May 16, 1978, the CSD, citing a ban on annexations because of limited sewer capacity in Carmel Valley, rejected Rancho Canada's request for a sewer hook-up.

At last week's supervisors' meeting, Lombardo unveiled his alternative to the CSD ban—a separate $400,000 to $500,000 sewage treatment facility for the lodge.

"THERE'S A MAIN SEWER line right next to the project," said Farr, "yet you're proposing to build a $500,000 on-site treatment facility? It doesn't make a bit of sense."

Petrovic agreed with Farr, saying the sewage and traffic problems and the pending master plan made the project premature.

"In two years, Mr. Lombardo, you might be grateful we turned down the permit," Petrovic stated.

Shipnuck also echoed concern that a separate sewage treatment facility was not a proper replacement.

The strongest argument against the separate facility came from Moore, who is chairman of the Monterey Regional County Sanitation District.

"I HAVE A STRONG BIAS against separate systems," Moore stated. "The project should not go forward unless it hooks up to a public facility."

The Outlook asked Lombardo what recall he had with the CSD if it again refused a hook-up for Rancho Canada.

"You're asking for what comes before the horse," Lombardo said.

"What was said today may not be said 20 days from now," Lombardo said, referring to the wording and definitions of the use permit requirements.

"We have the right under the law to put in a separate package plant," he declared.

CSD General Manager Bigelow told the Outlook that CSD was interested in working out a trade-off with Lombardo. In exchange for a hook-up, Lombardo would provide a trunk line to the golf course where a guaranteed amount of treated waste water would be used for irrigation, Bigelow explained.

MOORE SAID THAT WHATEVER decision the CSD reaches with Rancho Canada, it will be a guideline for future developments in Carmel Valley. Because of the significance of such a decision, Moore said, it was useless to second-guess the CSD.

"Parcheesi politics" seemed a fitting label for the scenario still facing Lombardo's embattled project, now contingent on conditions to be drafted by the county planning staff, and a decision from the CSD and what Lombardo himself called the "unbending attitude of the opposition."

Farr termed the process at the start of last week's session: "Democracy—a process by which the people get to choose who will take the blame."

Only North County Supervisor Kenneth Blohm cast a vote on the permit without commenting on the conditions.

RIDING IS FUN AT

RANCHO LAURELES
EQUESTRIAN CENTER

Some days we school; others we jump or do gymnastics. Most rides start out with a turn or two around our half-mile lapping track (the footing's grand!) and end with a refreshing cool-off for the horses' legs in the Carmel River. And Garland Park is our playground, for a leisurely trail ride or a fast conditioning trot uphill.

We're proving that a contented horse is a pleasure to own and ride. Our clean, safe, comfortable quarters and generous feedings of top-quality hay and bran, plus ready access to salt and fresh water put a bloom on your horse and keep it there.

Half of our grand old barn is rebuilt and occupied; the other half is almost ready. Keep an eye on us and you'll soon see new fencing and turnout paddocks and a cross-country course around the lapping track.

- Deluxe TC Ranch pipe corrals safeguard your horse with five-foot-high rails and six-foot dividers between horses to prevent biting or blanket chewing.
- High-protein alfalfa cubes fed morning and evening. Noon feedings by arrangement.
- Individual off-the-ground feeders and safe waterers.
- Corrals cleaned and raked morning and evening.

- Spacious, securely fenced schooling arena
- Dressage arena • Jumps

Blanketing and turnouts by arrangement
Clinics and private or group lessons may be arranged
Farriers and veterinarians on call
Limited separate pasturage for mares and geldings

Some horse owners would rather run than ride

By LUCY SMITHSON

ONE DAY I was trotting my horse around the lapping track at Garland Park when Ready Betty came bouncing in several directions down the Lupin Trail. She did not have her horse with her.

Instead of showing a lot of horesehide, Ready Betty was showing a lot of skin. She was wearing a cute little pair of running shorts that were a thigh to see. The message on her T-shirt could be read by nearsighted boobs. And she was smiling.

"What's with shank's mare instead of your four-footed one?" I asked her.

R.B. flicked a foxtail off the fuzzy pompom at the heel of her Adidas.

"You know how my mare jigs and jogs instead of walking? She has shaken loose every tooth in my head. My brains rattle like punkin' seeds. And God only knows where my kidneys are because my doctor can't find them."

I nodded. Horsewomen always horrify their gynecologists.

"One day I said to myself: 'Hail and trail balls! I could be having just as much pain and fun on my own two feet. Costs less at the blacksmith's too.' "

Ready Betty had joined that phenomenon of the late 70s: horse owners who run. There are runners who ride and riders who run. The trails are full of obsessive compulsives whose masochism knows no bounds.

EARLIER THIS SPRING I was able to borrow a good trail horse from the Barrow family all of whom were in training for the Bay to Breakers race. Even Muffin, the Boston bull terrier, was hoofing six miles a day along Carmel Valley Road. Andrew Barrow came in 125th in that race ahead of about 7,000 other runners. Elizabeth Barrow got interviewed about her part in the race by The San Francisco Chronicle. They made a good showing for Valley horsepeople.

Ever since Leonidas took off from the cavalry on foot to deliver the news to Marathon, people have been fascinated by running. The fact of the matter is that over a distance, human feet are more reliable than horses' feet.

Civil War generals who wanted to move in an assault force fast sent infantry. The U.S. Army still believes in marching troops about although they have given up horses entirely.

Even people who believe in riding horses long distances get off them during the route for a change of pace. Endurance riders routinely "tail" up steep hills. Pat Fitzgerald, a founder of the American Endurance Ride Conference, runs along behind his horse for much of the long races.

Levi's Ride & Tie Race is a combined running and riding race. Each pair of runners has one horse to take turns on. That race is 30 miles long.

JOY PRITCHARD of Oak Hills Stables, who organizes each May Monterey County's only endurance race, the Mission to Ocean 50 Miler, says that this year someone showed up on foot to run the novice section. That part of the race was 35 miles over rugged country. The runner finished the route before many of the horses.

The toughest endurance race in the world is the Tevis Cup 100 miler. The 25th running of it takes place on July 7. The race starts at Squaw Valley and ends at Auburn and includes 17,000 feet elevation gain and 15 miles of snowfields.

In 1974, Gordy Ainsleigh, veteran Ride & Tie racer, left his horse at home and ran the race in 23 hours and 42 minutes. Joy Pritchard, who competed that year on a purebred Arab, says that Gordy kept passing her going uphill. She would pass him going downhill. Then on the next upgrade as she was tailing along behind her hardworking horse, here would come Gordy again—just running free as the wind. And when she reached the stream crossings, there would be Gordy, just sitting in the icy water in his clothes.

Gordy Ainsleigh started something. In 1977, 14 runners ran the race. By 1978 they were calling it the Western States Endurance Run; 63 runners ran it. Over 100 runners are entered in this year's event.

As with horse endurance races, careful veterinary supervision is maintained over all the runners. Dr. Robert Lind, medical adviser to the Western States Endurance Run, stations medical personnel at various checkpoints. Ames/NASA will be sending a team of scientists to research the effects of extreme effort. Also, the UC Davis Medical School will send up a team of psychiatrists to ask questions of the race entrants.

Joy Pritchard has no doubts as to the results of this last bit of research. "It doesn't matter whether you ride or run a 100 mile race ... you have to be crazy either way," she says.

GIRL SCOUTS LEARN TO SIGN FOR THE DEAF

A page in the memory book of Junior Girl Scout Troop No. 2012 describes an activity which highlighted its year, the visit to the "Theater of Silence," a production by a University of Montana Touring Troop given at Salinas High School.

During the year the troop had developed a badge for its "Signing for the Deaf." Requirements for the badge included learning to sign the alphabet, songs, games and being able to carry on a conversation in sign language. It also included a written report on a famous deaf person.

The learning experience has been so successful and the scouts so enthusiastic that leader Mary Kay King has submitted a review of their project to the National Girl Scout Council in New York for consideration as a future national badge.

A badge was presented to the mime with the traveling troop to show the Valley girls' appreciation for their performance. Accompanying the scouts were Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gardner, and Mmes. Doyle Clayton, Richard King and Linda Seaborn.

INSTALLATION LUNCHEON AT COMMUNITY CHURCH

The retiring Board of Directors of the Women's Association of the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula hosted the installation luncheon held in the church parlor on West Carmel Valley Road.

The devotions led by retiring president Beth Morrow included excerpts from an 1873 song book (what to expect in 100 years!) and Helen Steiner Rice's, "How to Find Piece of Mind."

Installing officer Mrs. George Conn presented the president's gavel to Mrs. Herbert Blanks. Beth Morrow was installed as first vice-president; Pauline Timmers, second vice-president; Ida Carter, third vice-president; Bobbe Mallahey, secretary, and Betty Pearson, treasurer.

A delightful program, "Spices of the World" was presented by Barbara Cowell, a McCormick-Schilling food technologist.

SUMMER ART PROGRAM ENDS WITH SHOW

Seventeen young artists between 8 and 12 years old displayed samples of work completed in the Summer Art Program at Tularcitos last week, according to instructor Susan Estes.

Their multi-media ventures included wax-resist—a batik process, weaving, stitchery, wood construction, clay, tissue-fabric collage, painting, drawing and wall hangings.

Their work was judged by Web Buckham, representing the CV Kiwanis Club, and a representative of the CV Lions Club. All entries received ribbons. The group celebrated with a cookie decorating party and juice.

For Valley young people who have missed the music and art sessions of the six-week summer series, there still remain electronics, puppetry, magic and photography.

Patrick Allen and Sarah and Doug Pease head the program. Phone 659-4720 or 624-1415 for sign-up information. The charge for the course is $30 with discounts for more than one child enrolled from the same family.

CVCYC GENERAL MEMBERSHIP MEETING

The General Membership Meeting of the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center was held Thursday evening.

New directors elected to the board were Lois Hamilton, Ken Nixon, Joe Chaplis, Jim Luttrell, Don Weisner, Mike Viljoen, Rick Powers, Chuck McKay and Chuck Bosso.

Outgoing president Larry Gardner presented the gavel to the new president, Randy Randazzo.

Elected to share the governing duties of the center with Randazzo were Rick Powers, vice-president; Chuck McKay, recording secretary, and Marion Englund, corresponding secretary.

Plans were discussed for the potential solar heating of the CV Community Center Swimming Pool, and a fund-raiser for the center, "A Concert on the Green" scheduled for September 2.

LYCEUM MUSIC WORKSHOP

Enthused as the fortunate students who participated is Mrs. Paul Rembert who has chaired her fifth successful summer session of the Music Workshop co-sponsored by Lyceum of the Monterey Peninsula and the Summer Bach Festival.

Valley-ite Nancy Rembert directs the successful project from the acceptance of students on the basis of application information and auditions to the final performance at the Santa Catalina Performing Arts Center.

Priscilla Salgo of the Bach Festival directed the choral classes held at the Church of the Wayfarer in Carmel. Among

REMEMBER WHEN?

From the "Carmel Valley Outlook," July 9, 1969

There will be a new post office built in Carmel Valley in the near future, but just where is still undecided. This report was made at the monthly meeting of the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce last week at the Robles del Rio Lodge. Among the sites under consideration is one across from the Murphy Lumber Yard, on Ford Road and Carmel Valley Road, as well as others.

The present post office at the eastern edge of the Village area is completely inadequate, and the proposed new building will be several times larger. The original Carmel Valley post office was located in what is now Rosie's Cracker Barrel in Robles del Rio. Since the volume of business has climbed steadily, the new post office will likely be a first-class post office.

AN EDITORIAL

We sometimes wonder if there isn't a feeling in some official quarters that Carmel Valley wants to keep itself some kind of rustic hide-a-way—accessible to and from the Monterey Peninsula and Salinas, of course, and even to Greenfield, but not too accessible. It may not be fair to draw such a conclusion strictly on the basis of what the Valley chamber president described as "no evidence of progress" in repairing Carmel Valley Road.

It isn't just that the business people and the residents of the Village area of the Valley are somewhat disturbed at the casual approach to fixing the road where it was washed out almost six months ago. It's also that the entire Valley is getting a bad image, and the many summer visitors can't help but be inconvenienced, not to mention getting lost, when they want to take a look at this beautiful Valley.

Children's reading club starts

Children are invited to join the Monster Mania Reading Club at the Carmel Valley Branch Library this summer.

Youngsters who wish to enroll must have read one book and know its title. As they continue to read, they construct their own monster piece-by-piece. Non-readers can participate with adult supervision.

The club program continues through July and is directed by Children's Coordinator Lucinda Barnett.

For more information, telephone 659-2377.

Sierra Club offers stroll in woods

A leisurely stroll through the pine woods of Pacific Grove and along its waterfront is planned Saturday, July 7 by the local Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club.

The four-mile stroll will also include views of the "butterfly town's" old Victorian homes.

Group size is limited; for meeting time and place, phone leader Ernie Franco, 373-1489, after 6:30 p.m.

Exchange students aides sought

Japanese and Brazilian high school exchange students will be arriving in California for a year's stay beginning August 24.

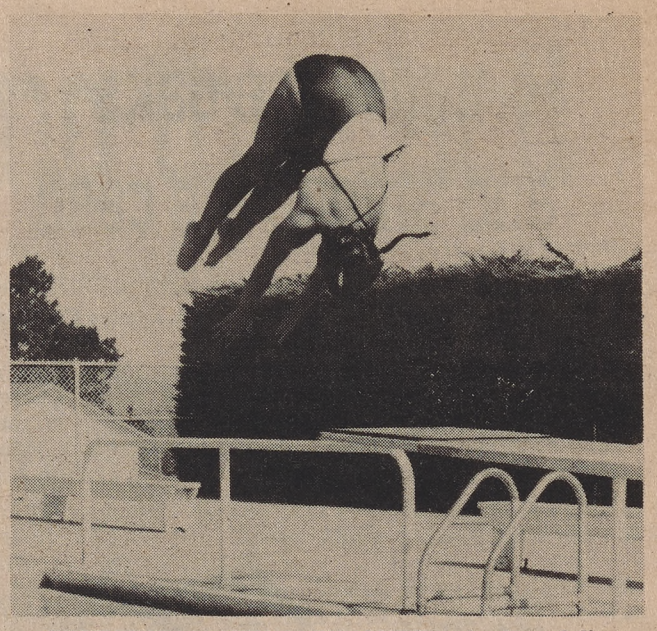
Volunteers are being sought by Pacific Intercultural Exchange (PIE) to help locate host families for these students.

Prospective volunteers should enjoy interacting with teenagers and adults. They should also be interested in learning about other countries and cultures.

PIE will pay expenses incurred in locating host families and also provide assistance.

The students are 15 to 17 years old and can speak English. They are eager to learn about the U.S. through American family life.

Volunteers can write to John Keilholtz, PIE California regional coordinator, 1358 Sunset Cliffs Blvd., San Diego, CA 92107.



GRETCHEN SEIGRIST EXECUTES a backward dive at the Carmel High School pool during the Barracuda diving program. The prorgram is in progress and open to divers of all ages and abilities.

Barracuda diving program extended; open to all ages

The Barracuda diving program, open to all ages and all ability levels, will be extended through November, according to head diving coach Karen Limov.

Beginning, intermediate and advanced divers may join twice daily practices at the Carmel High School and Carmel Valley Community pools. Attention will be given to the individual needs of each diver, says Limov, and all divers will be encouraged to participate in intraclub and AAU competition.

For more information on the diving program, phone Linda Lazonoff at 659-2450.

Display of home remodeling ideas

Decorators' Showhouse opens Saturday

CARMEL DECORATORS' Showhouse, the home transformed by Peninsula decorators into a dazzling and practical display of decorating ideas, opens to the public Saturday, July 7, 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

The nine-day event, which will continue during the same hours daily through Sunday, July 15, is sponsored by the Friends of Hidden Valley for the benefit of Hidden Valley Music Seminars.

Professional designers have pooled their talents to present an array of decorating ideas, schemes, furnishings and accessories.

They began with an unoccupied Monterey Colonial home on Franciscan Way which was loaned by one of the Friends. Each of the decorators was assigned a room or an area of the house in which to work his or her magic through renovation and decoration.

The results may now be viewed for the price of a $3.50 ticket purchased at the Showhouse, at the shops of the participating decorators and the following locations: Thomas B. Scanlon Antiques and Hidden Valley Music Seminars in Carmel Valley Village; Lois Toole Catering in the Mid-Valley Shopping Center and the How to Do Anything Bookstore in Carmel.

Because the Showhouse is on a winding residential street, visitors are asked to park at the Carmel Mission Baseball Field on Rio Road and walk or take the shuttle service to the house.

ALSO, FREE BUS service directly to the Showhouse will be available from Carmel Foundation on Tuesday, July 10. Beginning at 1:30 p.m. the bus will make as many round trips to the house as necessary. Riders need not make reservations nor belong to the Foundation.

Among the many areas of the Showhouse which are worthy of study by the amateur decorator is the dining room which has been decorated by Ed Hamstreet of Standard Furniture Co. in Salinas. Hamstreet has used a monochromatic color scheme that features a warm brick color to counteract Carmel's summer fog in this room which overlooks Point Lobos and the cool sea beyond.

He has chosen a Shumacher paper in a lace and leaf pattern with matching fabric for the drapes and valences. An area rug in a deeper brick shade will cover the floor. A loveseat in the window and the dining chairs will be covered in a French country check of brick and white. A traditional dining table with leaded glass inserts in an amber tone was Italian inspired.

Hamstreet came to Salinas four years ago from decorating shops in San Francisco and Palo Alto. He says that the average age of his clients is 33 and he feels it is important to decorate around the personality of the homeowner and not the decorator.

LA FILLE DU ROI is an exciting country French antique shop in Carmel and Charleen Matoza has brought some of that excitement to the nursery of the Showhouse. A 19th century crib and mother's daybed will be the room's focal points. A railroad ticking fabric on the walls and windows will complement the monochromatic color scheme.

Charleen's mother is French so her appreciation of French antiques began at an early age. Her family keeps an eye out for treasures which she acquires on her trips to France. Charleen studied design at the University of California at Los Angeles and came here from Los Angeles two years ago. She is one of Carmel's youngest shop proprietors.

"Something very special and lots of fun" is the way Gail Lehman describes the terrace she and her associate, Mary Ellen Bryson, designed for the Showhouse. They think the surprise they have in store for viewers as they enter the house will set the stage for the exciting moments ahead.

GAIL THINKS SHE has "space planned" about a half million square feet in the last 10 years. Her Environmental Planning Design Company begins with a raw building—only the stairwell and core services are in place—and plans the interior space to suit the clients, right down to the last accessory. She has worked on several government hospitals and public buildings as well as residences.

Gail, who received a bachelor's degree in government from Cornell, says her heart has been in Carmel since 1969 when she began her frequent commutes to the Peninsula. She moved here permanently in 1976.

Other area decorators also have contributed their talents to the presentation of the Showhouse.

Helen and George have planned the living room to display some of their many antiques against a color scheme from an English silk-screened fabric. The stairwell has been stenciled by Agnes Montgomery-Downes to create a garden look in the front entry hall.

The Peppercorn, of Carmel and The Barnyard, has shared its collection of culinary wares in outfitting the kitchen. Kaye Harrington has made an adjoining room into "The Play Pen," a children's garden playroom.

HIGHER INTEREST FOR ALL SAVERS.

We've made some important changes. New Government regulations now let us offer savers with small balances the same high return for their money only available before to larger accounts. Take a look:

THE FIRST 4-YEAR CD TIED TO TREASURY RATES.

This innovative new CD pays healthy interest. (More than banks can pay for the same certificate.) It's just 1% less than the average Treasury rate for selected 4-year securities. Like high-paying $10,000 Money Market Certificates, new rates are set by the Treasury Department. Monthly. And as little as $100 can start one.

SMALLEST MINIMUM EVER ON CD'S

We've reduced the minimum requirements for all certificates of deposit (CD's) from $1,000 to $100. (Except 6 month Money Market Certificates.) Small savers now qualify for annual interest rates as high as 8%. (Our new 4-year CD can go even higher.) The rate now depends only on how long you decide to leave your money on deposit. Not how much you deposit.

BEST RATE EVER FOR REGULAR SAVINGS.

We've raised the interest on Regular Savings by ¼%—up to 5½%. It's still more than banks can pay, and it comes automatically to our current savers.

This is our most flexible account—add or withdraw at any time with no penalty.

*Federal regulations still require an interest penalty for premature withdrawal from all certificates.

Difficult year predicted by new Middle School principal

R. L. NICKERSON, newly appointed principal of Middle School, believes he faces challenging curriculum and staff decisions due to budget cuts, but thinks the school's location, size, physical plant and faculty are strong assets.

By NAN BOMBERGER

R. L. NICKERSON assumed the duties of principal of Carmel Middle School July 1, facing difficult curriculum and staff changes due to decreasing funds, but prepared for the task by his nine years of experience in the Carmel Unified School District.

For the last two years, Nickerson has been assistant principal of Carmel High School.

He succeeds Bob Hinton, who resigned in April to become superintendent of an elementary school district near Redding.

A new assistant principal for CHS will be named later this summer.

"Middle School is a good school and has a strong, well-qualified staff, but the cutbacks have affected the curriculum and will put a strain on the staff to do the best they can," Nickerson said.

Since the Board of Education decided this spring to cut the school day from six to five periods at both the high school and Middle School, students will have harder course choices to make, Nickerson explained.

At Middle School, there will be just one elective period and students will have to choose among foreign language, arts, industrial arts and other courses.

Nickerson is concerned that the college-bound students will not get the foreign language courses they need at that level. Eventually their college entrance situation will be affected and so will Carmel High's foreign language program, which is based on incoming students from Middle School.

NICKERSON SAID THAT because of budget cuts, it will be necessary to eliminate some classes completely and to incorporate others. This means that some faculty members will have to teach subjects outside their specialty areas or subject they have not taught recently.

In spite of these problems, Nickerson feels that Middle School has some strong assets. "It's in a great location and has a good physical plant, including a nice gymnasium, for offering athletics and other activities."

He thinks the school is at an optimium size, now that the peak enrollment of the past few years has declined. "It's small enough for the kids to know each other and for the

Polo tourney

Polo teams from Pebble Beach and Carmel Valley met seven other clubs in the Pacific Coast four-goal Intra-Circuit Tournament at Collins Field in Pebble Beach.

The Carmel Valley team was host of the two-day, round-robin event, June 23-24.

The Pebble Beach team of John Walworth, Dick Collins, Whitney Baines and Mark Cooley advanced to the finals where they were defeated by the University of California at Davis, 5-1.

The Carmel Valley club played in the first consolation match and lost to Modesto, 2-0. Modesto then tied Rancho Alisos of Santa Barbara, but won on points.

The Carmel Valley team includes Josh Hall, Pat Herman, Tom Hinrichs and Brent Bower.

New principal expects difficult year faculty to know them," he said.

Middle School, located on Carmel Valley Road one mile from Highway One, will have an enrollment next fall of between 600 and 650 students in sixth through eighth grade, and a faculty of 25.6 classroom teachers.

Some faculty members will split their time between Middle and Carmel High.

Bud Chappell will continue as assistant principal at Middle School.

WHEN ASKED IF he expected major differences between his previous position as assistant principal at CHS and his new duties as Middle School principal, Nickerson said, "Well, it won't be as easy to go to the principal when I have a problem." He also commented that children in the middle school years are going through some delicate growth processes and need "a little extra tender, loving care."

Nickerson has been in the Carmel district since 1970 when he was hired to teach math at Carmel High School. He was teacher and chairman in the school's mathematics department for the next seven years. Prior to that he taught math at Rialto Unified School District and California State College at San Bernardino.

In 1977 he had decided to take a sabbatical leave to study school administration, but before he could leave he was named CHS assistant principal. Last year Nickerson earned an administrative credential through the internship program at San Jose State University.

Nickerson received a bachelor of science degree with a major in math from California State College in California, Pa., and a masters' of science degree with a math major from Oregon State University.

Nearly 50 applicants for the principalship at Middle School were screened by School Superintendent Carl Wilsey and a committee of teachers and parents.

IN ADDITION TO the necessary educational rquirements and teaching experience, Nickerson feels that the committee was looking for a "leader who could pull the faculty and the community together in this trying time for California education."

He also feels that his extensive experience with curriculum development and review—as teacher, faculty committee member and administrator at Carmel High—will be of value in his new job. Since courses at Middle School feed into the more advanced courses at the high school, he feels familiar with the lower level curriculum.

Nick, as he is known to his friends and coworkers, said he likes to keep busy. "It's nice to have different things to worry about for a change," he said. He has managed men's wear stores and offered a tax consulting service simultaneous with his jobs in education.

He likes to jog, and belongs to the Carmel Lions Club as well as several professional organizations.

Nickerson lives in Carmel Valley with his wife, Kathy, and their four sons, Eric, 12; Darin, 8; Bret, 7; and Thad, 4. Eric thinks it is nice that his Dad will come to his school next year. Darin and Bret attend Tularcitos School and Thad is in preschool.

The rest of the Nickerson family is on a cross-country trip that had been planned for many months. Nickerson will take a few weeks' vacation to accompany them on the last half of the trip. He will return in late August in preparation for the opening of school, Sept. 5.

TWO CARMEL HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES will spend the next 10 weeks as exchange students in the American Field Service program. Sue Morris (left) will go to Brittany, France, and Jan Clemens will live with a family in the Union of South Africa.

Two Carmel High graduates participating in summer exchange students program

JAN CLEMENS AND SUE Morris, graduates of Carmel High School, have temporarily left their parents to live for the next 10 weeks with families in the Union of South Africa and France as part of the American Field Service (AFS) program.

Following the basic tenet of the AFS exchange project, they will not be treated like guests, but will consider themselves as members of their host families and will participate in the usual family activities.

Jan, the daughter of Gordon and Marian Clemens of Carmel, will join the David Whitehead family who reside 15 miles north of Johannesburg. Jan has received a picture of her new father, mother, 14-year-old brother and 18-year-old sister, as well as several letters which describe themselves and their activities.

Since it is winter there, Jan will attend school along with the two Whitehead children. There will be time out for a short family vacation to a game reserve.

SUE, THE DAUGHTER of Patricia Morris of Carmel, didn't learn too much about her new family before she left Carmel. She will live with the Desombre family who reside in Montesson, in Brittany, France. Sue was not able to locate Montesson in her atlas, so assumes it is a small town. Fishing, farming and tourism are the principal means of livelihood in that part of France. Since school will not be in session there, she expects to work with the Desombres in their occupation.

Both girls have belonged to the American Field Service club at Carmel High School. They have known other Carmel students who have lived for a summer or a year with an AFS family abroad and also have known foreign students who have attended CHS on the same program.

During the 12 years that Carmel has had an active AFS chapter, 20 CHS students have gone abroad and 16 foreign youngsters have come to Carmel.

Nationally, about 5,000 students are exchanged every year and 54 countries participate in the program.

COSTS ARE MET by the student's own family, the home chapter of AFS and the national organization. The host family donates food and shelter.

Two foreign students will come to Carmel next fall to spend the school year here.

A girl from Switzerland will live with the Sippel amily (Pat Sippel was one of the first Carmel students exchanged) and another host family is still needed for the second student.

Both Sue and Jan will start college next fall when they return.

Sue will begin her study of music at the University of California at Los Angeles and Jan will enter Monterey Peninsula College.

The Clemens family is deeply involved with the AFS. Gordon Clemens helped organize the Carmel chapter and a German girl lived with them this past year. Also, Pam Clemens, Jan's younger sister, will leave in August to spend her senior year in Austria.

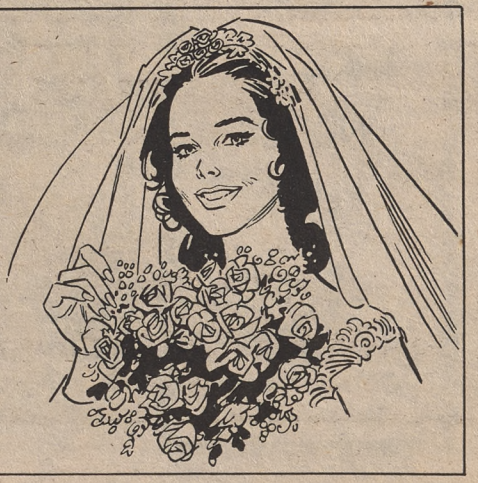
Weddings are news . . .

Weddings are very special events and we want to tell about them. Here is how to submit your engagement or wedding news:

Obtain a wedding information form at the offices of the Pine Cone and Outlook, Ocean and San Carlos. If you prefer, write us at P.O. Box G-1, Carmel 93921. We will be happy to mail one to you. Photographs of the bride or the bride and groom together are welcomed. There are no restrictions. Both color and black and white photographs will be accepted. We cannot guarantee return of photographs. As a courtesy to the wedding parties, we will not publish a wedding story until after the wedding. For more information, call 624-0162.



Study finds parents, staff satisfied with racial balance in schools

Parents and personnel of the Carmel Unified School District are satisfied apparently with the racial balance of their elementary schools.

This was reflected in the results of a survey conducted by the school district and presented to the Board of Education at its special public hearing last week on the racial balance of students and staff.

Responding to the two-part questionnaire were 231 parents, 18 teachers and 19 non-teaching staff members.

Part one asked: "Do you believe that any elementary school of the district is a 'minority' school in that the students are adversely affected by the racial or ethnic mix of the student body or staff?" Five said "yes," while 264 answered "no."

The other question of the survey asked: "Do you believe that any elementary school of the district has inferior buildings and equipment as a result of the racial and ethnic mix of the student body or staff?" Two answered "yes," and 267 said "no."

"Based on the results of this questionnaire," Schools Superintendent Carl Wilsey told board members, "it appears that very few individuals believe that our elementary students are adversely affected by the racial and ethnic mix of the students or staff."

The questionnaire and last week's public hearing were the concluding phases of the district's report compiled to satisfy a state requirement which stipulates that a racial balance must be maintained in the district's individual schools.

Last May the administration presented a report which showed that fewer than 6 percent of the students enrolled in elementary schools belong to minority groups, and fewer than 9 percent of the district staff are members of minorities.

A maximum of 20.6 percent minority membership is allowed before the school is considered out of balance.

Based on this factor and the results of the survey, all of the elementary schools in the Carmel district are in balance with regard to both students and staff, Wilsey told trustees.

Board members had criticized the study when it was launched last April as "busywork" because of the predominantly white makeup of the local school population.

Apparently residents agreed with the trustees' opinion. Nobody from the public attended the special hearing last week to comment on the findings.

The school board voted to close the hearing and to reaffirm its position that the elementary schools of the district are racially and ethnically in balance. The vote was 3-0 with trustees Elizabeth Bell and Frances Gaver absent.

Middle School and Carmel High School were not involved in the survey because the district has only one junior and one senior high school and therefore a racial imbalance can't exist.

Enlistment bonus offered by Army

There are openings in the U.S. Army that pay a $2,500 bonus upon enlistment to those who qualify for training as fire control specialists, according to local Army recruiting representatives.

Army training in this artillery specialty stresses knowledge of fundamentals of direct and indirect fire as well as types and handling of artillery ammunition. In addition, Army fire control specialists learn to drive vehicles ranging from five-quarter-ton size to large prime-movers and self-propelled artillery weapons.
